

ABSTRACT

A gaming system 100 comprises multiple gaming machines and a management server. Each of the multiple gaming machines includes special game information transmitting device for transmitting bonus game start information to the management server, and special game participation information transmitting device for transmitting bonus game participation information to the management server. The management server includes special game initiation information receiving device for receiving the special game information transmitted from the special game information transmitting device, special game initiation information transmitting device for transmitting a bonus game start notice command to the gaming machines other than the gaming machine that has transmitted the special game information, and game value providing command transmitting device for transmitting a bonus game ending command to each of the gaming machines, corresponding to the results of the special game.